STEADY DOWN POUR OF RAIN INTERFERES WITH BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY FAIR

Good Time Thursday, Notwithstanding the Weather
---Fine Agricultural Show---Educated Horse
Attracts the Crowd---Grand-Stand Crowded.

Rain interfered seriously with the Breckenridge county fair and only Thursday did many brave the way to attend, then without a ray of sunshine. The gate receipts were $800, good, considering the heavy rain the opening day and no fair at all Friday. The Henderson Route special did its part Friday morning by going on schedule time and returning at once with empty coaches. Thursday, the train carried more passengers than it did the second day last year which showed an increased interest in the fair. The crowd was distinctively a Breckenridge county gathering with few strangers. There was a large representation from Cloverport, many going on the train and others drove and went in automobiles. Messrs. Tom Carter, Floyd Carter, Leonard Gregory and Vivian Pierce gave a hay-ride. The Hardinsburg fair patrons were there early to give everybody a welcome and at the noon hour, their generous hospitality was extended when huge baskets of delicious food were opened and everything good to eat was served in abundance to the visitors.

The entire afternoon the grand-stand was crowded, except when dozens would leave to see the educated horse. "Centaur" is a wonder and was of greatest interest. He can spell by taking up the letters of words called by anyone and can pick any piece of colored cloth named. The educated horse belongs to Thos. Smith, of Fordsville, and goes to all the fairs.

The race track was heavy and there were few races. The mule that jumped the fence created the most excitement of the day. Just as he won the race, over the fence he jumped! When the roadsters were shown the mud splattered all over the horses and drivers. The same sponge was used to mop the faces of the horses and the men. Horses first! And the drivers did not seem to mind.

The agricultural display was splendid. Not a quantity of products, but the quality was never better. The beets were as large as watermelons and cabbage as big as pumpkins. Across from the fine corn and big Irish potatoes, were exquisite species of poultry in the approved exhibit coops for fairs. Hanging over head were hands of wonderful tobacco, which will not be seen many more years in Breckenridge county, where the soil is growing something better for every farmer and his family.

Floral Hall in charge of Miss Bettie Taylor, showed a display of various articles, useful and beautiful, made by Breckenridge county women and girls.

Through the drizzling rain, the children pattered over the soaked path to the merry-go-round for their annual ride. Cracker-jack and ice pop were popular treats. The day passed quickly, before people got their visit out to the fair and Hardinsburg. They left, hoping they could come back next year.

WHO'LL BE SUE?

The Question Grows More Interesting Each Day—Contest Daily Excites at the Different Stores.

"Who'll be Sue, Movie Queen?" is the daily question in Cloverport and the contest is growing in popularity. Votes are given on the punch board and people are even asking for them with their meals and home rent. Miss Rosa Sippel was a star for the first time Friday as that evening she was announced as the leading lady in the contest. The contest is full of pleasant surprises for all the candidates. When 200 and 300, sometimes a 1,000 or more are given them without a hint, they are completely bewildered to know who cast the votes in their favor. Woman suffrage could bring no greater pleasure to the young women than the movie queen voting contest, the young women, the middle-age and the older ones are interested. Ten dollars for a new fall hat or a jaunty coat suit or a watch bracelet are some of the dreams of the girls who want to be Sue, and will get the cash prize.

Mr. Oelze has already begun his picture tour.

The contest stands as follows:

Miss Lucile Berry.....49,981
Miss Mabel McCracken.....42,867
Miss Eula McCracken.....36,139
Miss Rosa Sippel.....35,420
Miss Anna Mae Penner.....32,743
These are the five leaders. There are a number of other pretty girls in the contest, who will, no doubt, get in the lead soon, girls who make beautiful pictures.

Carter's Landing. James Dyer, the Cannelton lumber man, late in the afternoon of the picnic, thought he would go take a peep over the bluff where Mr. Hook had his automobile accident. While he was looking at the wreck, Mr. Henry Morton, owner of the corn field that was damaged, came up. Mr. Dyer says: "Uncle Hen, isn't that your corn field?" "No," says Uncle Hen, "It isn't now. I've rented it out for pasture for automobiles."

Mr. Henry Tate says that automobiles are getting so common and horses and buggies so scarce, his machine scares every time it meets a horse and buggy. He says that's what caused Mr. Hook's accident.

We understand that the Hon. Edward Gregory, of Cloverport, the original Stanley man, will start a moving picture show, showing pictures of the two Macks going up Salt River.

Don't you know, we were arrested for "the man of mystery." We knew we were ugly alright, but we didn't know we looked like a mystery.

Those that entered in the fat man's contest were: Herbert Beard, John Haswell, Judge Henry DeHaven Moorman and Col. Claude Mercer, of Hardinsburg; Hardin Kinder, Samuel Bishop and Charles Fletcher, of Cloverport. When the committee looked them over, they decided they were too fat for the fat man's race, so they were put on exhibition in the elephants' ring. While the ribbons were being tied on, the band struck up, "Oh You Great Big Beautiful Dicks!"

Mr. Eugene Elder and wife, of Richmond, Ky., came two hundred miles to attend the picnic.

Father Henry had a narrow escape that day. Some one bombarded him with confetti.

Hon. Henry Tate says that Uncle Bob Mattingly is the tallest man in the world if he cultivates his garden. Why? Because he plants his garden in the moon.

Better Pay and Longer Term for Teachers.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Aug. 16.—Superintendent J. W. Trent and the County Board of Education at their meeting last week adopted the following salary schedule to govern the payment of the teachers of Breckenridge county for the present school year. The schedule is as follows: First class schools, $50.00 per month; all principals, $50.00; second class schools of fifty-five pupils and above, $40.00; all second class schools under fifty-five pupils, $36.00; all regular assistants, $38.00; assistants in four special, $30.00.

In addition to the above schedule, $1 per month will be paid all teachers making an average annual attendance of sixty-five per cent of the census enrollment of their respective school.

Teachers will observe that this is some increase in the salary over the schedules heretofore; also, we have this year an increase of one month in the length of the school term. These matters, we are sure, will be gratifying to the teachers and we hope will be productive of good results in the public schools of our county.

JOSEPH HOGUE, President

Is It Worth While?

Is it worth while that we jostle a brother bearing his load on the rough road of life?
Is it worth while that we rest at each other's elbow?
In blackness of heart—that we war to the knife?
God pity us in our pitiful strife.

God pity us all as we jostle each other; God pardon us all for the triumphs we feel.

When a fellow goes down; poor heart-broken brother,
Pierced to the heart; words are keener than steel,
And mightier far for woe or for weal.

Were it not well in this brief little journey,
On over the lastness, down into the tide,
That we give him a fish instead of a serpent
Ere folding the hands to be and abide
For ever and aye in dust at his side.

Look at the roses saluting each other;
Look at the herds all at peace on the plain,
Man, and man only, makes war on his brother,
And dots in his heart on his peril and pain—
Shamed by the brutes that go down on the plain.

—Joachim Miller.

SELECTING BROOD

SOW AND HERD BOAR

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

The brood sow is the first animal to select in laying a foundation for a herd. The better she is the greater the chances for success. A good brood sow must possess depth and length of body, a good heart girth, smooth shoulders, well sprung ribs and long, deep, well turned hams. Her sides should be long, deep and straight.

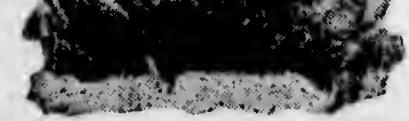

A straight or slightly arched, broad back is much desired, as it is much stronger than a low back. The back should carry its width and the side flues should be straight. She should stand up well on her toes, and have smooth, straight joints with hard, abundant, but not coarse bone, and must have feminine characteristics, which are indicated by a rather small head and ear, a fully developed, even udder and absence of shields on the shoulders.

A brood sow should show early maturing qualities and have sufficient capacity to do the work for which she is intended. A smooth coat of fine hair and a broad head with sufficient weight for her age are good indications of early maturity. If selecting more than one sow uniformity of the lot is desirable and important.

The nearer alike the sows are the more is the probability of the pigs being uniform. If pure bred sows are selected breed type should be carefully observed. "Breed type" means the characteristics of a breed.

In selecting the herd boar the same points are essential, except that the animal should show masculinity. A strong, broad head and neck, sufficient bone, with strong, straight pasterns, hock and knee joints are important. He should show early maturing characteristics and have well developed organs. Shields or thick plates of skin should not show on the sides of the shoulder before he is one year of age.

A strong, slightly arched back, with large heart girth, is essential in a first class boar, for he must have room for the vital organs, namely, heart, lungs, etc. Remember that the boar is at least half of the herd as far as breeding is concerned and he is usually more, so his selection cannot command too much care or patience. Get a good boar, and he will pay you well.

The mule foot hog is a comparatively new breed. It got its name from its solid hoof, like that of a horse or mule. The flesh is of remarkably fine flavor, said to be even better than the Berkshire. Like all breeds not distant removed from the "wild" ancestors, the mule foot hog is very prolific, and this quality, together with its comparative freedom from disease, has served to gain for him a degree of popularity. The illustration shows a mule foot boar.

HAS OWENSBORO

FOUND THE SAME

The Answer is Found in the Straightforward Statement of an Owensboro Resident.

We have been reading week after week in the local press of Cloverport citizens who have been rid of distressing kidney and bladder troubles by Doan's Kidney Pills, and we have often wondered whether the same high opinion of this medicine is to be found in our neighboring towns. This frank and earnest statement by a well-known and respected resident of Owensboro will set this doubt at rest.

Mrs. W. N. Bartlett, 620 Triplett St., Owensboro, Ky., says: "For a long time, I had nearly every symptom of kidney disease. My back ached terribly and I did not sleep well. During the day I was nervous and in bed all the time. My feet became swollen and I knew that I required a good remedy to cure me. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and they are the only medicine I will ever use for kidney trouble. I can highly recommend them, as they lived up to the claims made for them." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bartlett had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

PACKING AND SHIPPING HOUSE, KENTUCKY STATE FOREST NURSERY

TREE PLANTING ALONG PUBLIC ROADS

Remarkable Development of Good Roads Sentiment in Kentucky Has Created a Demand For Shade Trees Along the Roads

The last year in Kentucky has seen a wonderful agitation for good roads throughout the State and at the present time a large number of highways are being constructed under the State aid plan. There is no doubt but what the number of good roads in Kentucky will increase each year. The construction of good roads and the standardization of roads has created a demand for shade trees along the rights of way to beautify them. In anticipation of this demand the State Forester is paying particular attention to the raising at the State nurseries at Louisville and Frankfort trees particularly adapted for planting along the public highways. A good many species have been suggested and one idea which seems to have a firm root in the public mind and which may undoubtedly lead to a great deal of good in the community is the planting of nut bearing and fruit trees along the roads. It is felt that in this way the trees along the highways could be made to produce a product of sufficient value to aid in the maintenance of the road. This has been successfully done in several instances, particularly in Europe. With this end in view the State Forester has been experimenting with a large number of nut trees of different varieties including pecan, hickory, black walnut, English walnut and others. Also the growing of apple trees and other fruit trees along the road is a suggestion which meets with a great deal of favorable comment and the nursery at Louisville has undertaken the growing of apple stock on a large scale.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

IV.—F. A. Vanderlip

On The Business of Banking

The farmers of this nation to come into their own must study business. We must, as a class, understand the fundamental principles that underlie every industry. Its functions to society and its relation to agriculture, for there can be no intelligent co-operation without understanding. Mr. F. A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, when asked, "What is a bank?" said in part:

"The first and most familiar function of a bank is that of gathering up the idle money of a community, small sums and large, and thus forming a pool or reservoir upon which responsible persons may draw as they have temporary use for money. It is evident that this makes large sums in the aggregate available for the employment of labor and the development of the community. But much more is accomplished than the use of the money actually deposited in the banks, for by the use of drafts, checks and bank notes the efficiency of money is multiplied several times over. A very large business, for example one of the great beef packers, may use very little actual money; on one side of its bank account will be entered the checks and drafts it is daily receiving from everywhere in payment for meat, while on the other side will be entered the checks it draws in payment for cattle, etc., its only use of money being for small payments, to labor and otherwise.

If there were but one bank in a community and everybody paid all bills by drawing checks on that bank, and everyone receiving a check immediately deposited it in the bank, the amount of money in the bank evidently would not change at all and the entire business of the community would be settled on the books of the bank. And the situation is but slightly changed when there are several banks, for they daily exchange among themselves all the checks they receive on each other, which practically offset themselves, although the small balances are paid in cash. This is called 'clearing' and in every large city there is a 'Clearing House' where representatives of the banks meet daily to settle their accounts with each other.

A bank is constantly receiving from its customers, particularly those that are shipping products to other localities, drafts and checks drawn on banks in other cities, which it usually sends for deposit to a few correspondent banks in the central cities with which it maintains permanent accounts. In this way these scattered credits are consolidated and the bank draws upon these accounts in supplying customers with the means of making payments away from home. As each local community sells and buys about the same amount abroad in the course of a year, these payments largely offset each other. It is evident that the banks are very intimately related to the trade and industry of a country. The banker is a dealer in credit much more than a dealer in money, and of course his own credit must be above question. He exchanges his credit for the credits acquired by the customers, and lends credit for their accommodation, but he must conduct the business with such judgment that he can always meet his own obligations with cash on demand. This is the essential thing about bank credit, that it shall always be the same as cash."

STATE WORKER VISITS COUNTY SCHOOLS.

Miss Emma Hunt has visited twenty-three county schools in Breckenridge and made health lectures to each one. In one school she found six tubercular children. Miss Hunt was welcomed in every school and in many homes, where they were anxious to learn "Safety First." Teaching the child to breathe through his nose, to keep his teeth clean and his feet still in school, were a great help to the teachers. Miss Hunt met. She says the reason so many counties do not have better schools, is that either the parents are not sufficiently interested or the superintendent is trying not to spend the school money. It is no accomplishment for a school superintendent not to spend money for school work, but to spend it wisely and fruitfully, should get him the office again or something better. Miss Hunt's instruction how to prevent tuberculosis is of sempiternal value to our children.

MERCHANTS BUYING FALL GOODS.

"New York is entertaining now the most enthusiastic inflow of out of town merchants it has had in two years," says the New York Sun. They are enthusiastic because they have the longest list of orders that has been their pleasure to place since the great war started. They tell of better conditions everywhere. This is good news to us all. Our merchants will soon buy fall goods and we hope they can be as cheerful and as enthused over their business as these men who have already gone East. People like to buy goods from the merchant who is enthusiastic over his work, who keeps his stock complete, his store light and clean and an up-to-date line of goods. Mercantile business is very attractive and it is a merchant's fault, if his store does not attract trade.

SANITARY SODA WATER FOUNTAINS.

General Rupert Blue of the United States Public Health Service has issued a warning to the danger of tuberculosis from the glasses used at soda water fountains. The warning is heartily welcomed. There is no excuse in the city where hot and cold running water is available for carelessly cleaned glasses. In small towns without water works, it does take extra work to keep plenty of clean water at the soda fountains and a perfectly clean soda fountain is appreciated. So many persons of all ages and conditions drink soda water and the glasses used by them should be thoroughly cleaned with soap and clean water, followed by rinsing, and if necessary, dried with a fresh, clean towel. It is delightful to go to a soda water fountain where the service is sanitary and those who operate it practice sanitation in the highest degree.

OUR COUNTY FAIR

Let us hope the failure of the fair, on account of the weather, has not completely discouraged the Breckenridge County Fair Association and that they will undertake it again next year. Perhaps, the disappointment will result in success for the next fair and the people all over the county will co-operate more heartily in assisting the fair managers to have the best fair possible. So few county men entered their stock and had any special shows. H. H. Norton said Wednesday, "There are as fine horses in the county as were brought there by outsiders and it is awful for our men to let others come and take away the substantial premiums."

If you walk down in Breckenridge Addition after the evening mail you will fully realize that Cloverport has electric lights. The residents burn their hall lights and porch lights freely and the use of electricity makes the homes and streets beautiful.

We are sure a ship-load of articles will be sent to The Woman's Shop at the State Fair. There any Kentucky woman may put her crocheting, embroidery or other work on sale.

The country fair at Irvington, September 24 and 25, will have as the leading feature, a special agricultural address.

"Not tired of life, and yet, ready to go at any time," says Mr. Noel, at the age of ninety-three.

The man who keeps his temper when in a hurry, is the man who gives perfect satisfaction.

"I would if I could," often means "I could if I would."

Fire-Blight.

Fire-Blight is undoubtedly the most serious disease that confronts the Kentucky fruit grower today. San Jose Scale is no longer dangerous when trees are properly sprayed. The aphid is easily controlled as are all the other greatly-feared troubles of the past. After all the other orchard troubles have been successfully met and conquered, it is very discouraging to see a promising crop of fruit ruined in a short time. In fact blight has been termed the Great Black Plague of the fruit industry. It has been estimated that it carries an annual loss of $25,000,000 to the country.

Blight is a preventable disease, and in view of the tremendous losses occasioned by it, a systematic effort should be made to check it.

Pears and apples are more subject to attack than are any of the other fruits. In fact, the writer would not urge the planting of commercial pear orchards in Kentucky for the time being, until more definite means of control have been worked out. Certain varieties of apples are more susceptible than others, and it is well for a grower to consider this point in making an extensive planting.

Blight is caused by a minute germ or organism that lives during the dormant season in cankers, resulting from infection the previous season. These cankers are formed at the branches and in extreme cases on the larger limbs and trunk of tree. Every fruit grower should acquaint himself with the appearance of the canker and destroy it as soon as noticed. If every canker could be disposed of, blight could be held in control.

Blight usually appears shortly after the blossoming period, and is first noticed when the blossoms and tips begin to wilt and blacken. Often the tips of the branches only are affected. In other instances it may extend down the twig or branch, killing it as it progresses. The twigs and leaves appear as if they had been scorched by fire, hence the term fire-blight.

It is almost impossible to cut out the diseased twigs on a badly blighted tree during the growing season. Fire-blight is a problem involving the community, hence, an organized endeavor should be made to check it. Learn to recognize the disease in its various stages, clean up the orchard and encourage your neighbor to do the same thing.

Do not be misled regarding the so-called "blight cures." There is no patent cure and no one should ever attempt to cure blight by spraying, inoculation, or soil doctoring. Insects particularly aphids and ants, spread blight. Use the spray against these if necessary.

"What are you doing now?" "Two a day," said the vaudeville actor. "And you?" "I can't quite equal that," responded the popular novelist. "Two a week is about my limit."—Kansas City Journal.

PENS OF THE PAST.

The Old Time Quill and the Art of Putting a Point on It.

Quill pens are no longer used except in rare old fashioned instances, but people still use "penknives"—you can see the name any day in the cutlery store windows—but they do not use them to make or mend pens. In fact, where is there a man or woman who knows how to put a point on a quill? It was once an art which every man had to master, though women were generally bad at it, as they are now at sharpening pencils.

In the old days the first question asked of a schoolmaster was the one whether he was skillful in pointing quills, for he had to sharpen the pens of his whole school and incidentally instruct his pupils in the art. Alas! There is no modern pen of steel or gold that is so smooth, so swift, so alluring as a good quill pen. The writer is very sure of that, for his father used to tell him so.

The art of handwriting has certainly declined since the quill pen went out of use. The old fellows could really write. We still pay them an unconscious tribute by calling a writer a "quill driver" and picturing the pen, whenever we have to make an abstract representation of it, as a quill.—New York Mail.

A Diplomatic Official.

During the reign of Emperor Napoleon III, he and the empress visited Normandy and had arranged to spend a couple of days at Evreux. M. Janvier de la Monte, who was the prefect, learned that the revolutionaries intended to hiss the sovereigns as they passed, and so he summoned the leaders of the movement and told them that he knew of their plot. "If you carry out your plan," said he to them, "you will get six months in prison. If you do not your friends will accuse you of cowardice and treason. As a way out of the difficulty I propose to lock you up at once until the emperor has gone." The conspirators accepted the terms offered them, and so the emperor was greeted only by cheers, as the revolutionaries, frightened at the arrest of their chiefs, had not dared to utter a sound.

The Tail of a Fish.

A fish's tail is its wings. Owing to the machinery of muscle set along its spine and to its cleaving form a trout or salmon can dart through the water at a tremendous pace, though its rapid flights, unlike the bird's, are not long ones. It is soon tired. The water is not so friendly to flight as the air. The stroke of the fish's tail is one of great power, and by means of it and the writhing, snake-like flexion of the body a high speed is reached. The strength behind this speed is shown in the way a fish or sea mammal out of the water will raise its tail and strike the ground or boat.

Victor Hugo.

Victor Hugo was the wealthiest of the nineteenth century authors and also the hardest. At one time he made less than 1,000 francs last him and his brother for eighteen months, and one chop would serve for lunch three days in succession. But this early abstinence did not spoil Hugo's digestion, for at the age of eighty-three he cracked nuts with his teeth and ate oranges as some folk eat apples—peel and all.

Reducing Hog Disease.

There is no doubt that if the locations of all the hog houses and hog lots on farms were more carefully chosen, all feeding floors constructed of concrete, sanitary hog wallows provided in the yards, disinfectants used more frequently and freely and the pasture system of maintaining the swine herds during the spring, summer and fall seasons followed, that hog cholera would be greatly reduced.

RUTH LAW LAWLESS SKIMMER OF THE SKY

With George Mayland, the "Miraculous Human Fly"

RUTH LAW.

RUTH LAW is "such a little queen," but she makes her big brothers of the wide blue sky sit up in their mono and biplanes and take notice when she sails into the far reaches of the empyrean and does stunts that even a bird would not dream of doing. And yet she has been flying only two years, is one of only two women fliers in the country and is still in her teens. She is just an ambitious, daring, feminine little stp who has become enamored of aerial work, does not know the meaning of fear and who, while modestly deeming what is known as "insane" or sensational flying and who preaches the beauty and commendability of self-reliance, yet skims and darts and spirals and dives and drives through the air in such dizzy fashion that her every appearance is the supreme sensation of the day.

Daredevilry evidently runs in the Law family, for Ruth is a sister to the famous Rodman Law, champion air man, high diver and motion picture sensation, whose doings have furnished the press with special stories galore. Not satisfied with the achievements she accomplishes alone, Ruth has secured another intrepid soul in George Mayland, a parachute jumper, who goes up for 2,000 feet or over in the "Air Queen's" machine, creeps out on the crossed wires under the plane, cuts loose his chute from the body of the car and, with the airship going sixty or seventy miles an hour, drops 500 feet before he dares let his frail support umbrellia open and carry him to the earth 1,500 feet.

Rushing at a rate too terrific for even an express train to rival, the effect of this sudden lightening of the muddly careening airship, outlined like a shooting star against the far sky, is absolutely awesome, and spectators momentarily lose breath and speech until the little flier and the big car right themselves and triumphantly continue their journey—for that time at least.

Going over Niagara falls in a barrel or smoking in a gunpowder factory is inconsequential compared with this feat, which sends shivers up the spine at the mere description and which is in reality one of the most spectacular, sensational, electrifying and tremendously thrilling ever witnessed and which no other flier is duplicating or attempting.

Every day Ruth Law and her nerve tingling turn will be the supreme attraction at the Kentucky State Fair, and on two afternoons of the week George Mayland will make his death-defying dive.

BANNER TOBACCO YEAR

Early Crops Insure Great Show For Thirteenth Annual Kentucky State Fair

FOR the first time in the past several years conditions are entirely favorable for tobacco growers, and the crop for 1915 will be an unusually early one. In view of this fact it is more than probable that the tobacco exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair this year will be an interesting and extensive one, with growers of every county competing for the interesting premiums offered. E. S. Rees, superintendent of the department, is making an appeal to growers throughout the state to do their sections proud this season by entering the banner leafing of their crops, and the rivalry will be keen.

Entries for the tobacco department will close Sept. 8, and in the interim application blanks and further information may be had from Evan S. Rees, superintendent, Springfield, Ky., or J. L. Dent, secretary, Kentucky State Fair, Louisville, Ky.

The various crops and leafage eligible for entry are as follows:

GOVERNMENT CUTS COST OF RADIUM PRODUCTION.

Secretary Lane Urges the Conservation of Ore Deposits.

Secretary Lane announced that the production of radium from Colorado carnotite ores by the bureau of mines of the department of the interior, in connection with the National Radium Institute, has passed the experimental stage in its new process and is on a successful manufacturing basis. He also declared that the statements made to congress concerning the ability of the bureau of mines to produce radium at a greatly decreased cost over other processes had actually been verified and that the cost was even less than predicted. Secretary Lane said:

"The cost of one gram of radium metal produced in the form of bromide during March, April and May of the present year was $36,050. I am informed by Dr. Charles L. Parsons, in charge of the radium investigations of the bureau. This includes the cost of ore, insurance, repairs, amortization allowance for plant and equipment, cost of bureau of mines salaries and all expenses incident to the production of high grade radium bromide. When you consider that radium has been selling for $120,000 and $100,000 a gram, you will see just what the bureau of mines has accomplished along these lines.

"The cost of producing radium in the small experimental plant during the first few months of the bureau's activities was somewhat higher, but not enough seriously to affect the final average."

Recommends Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I never hesitate to recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Sol Williams, merchant, Jesse, Tenn. "I sell more of it than any other preparations of like character. I have used it myself and found it gave me more relief than anything else I have ever tried for the same purpose." Obtainable everywhere.

"COFFIN NAILS" ORDERED FOR ARMIES OF THE ALLIES.

400,000,000 Cigarettes Must Be Delivered by Sept. 1.

The allies have signed a contract with a large American manufacturing firm for 400,000,000 "coffin nails." They are not metal nails to tack up coffins with, however, but are the good old "coffin nails" of the text books on physiology, the same old "coffin nails" dear Aunt Maria warns small Billy about.

The 400,000,000 cigarettes are to be delivered to the allies on or before Sept. 1. The order will keep the factory handling it busy night and day. It is stated. In order to get the "smokes" completed on time the factory will have to turn out cigarettes at the rate of 10,000,000 a day, or about 7,000 for every minute of the day, which is "go in" some, every man who "rolls his own" will admit.

If the allies smoke the cigarettes at the rate of manufacture, a cloud of smoke forty feet high should engulf the German empire, statisticians figure out.

Four hundred million cigarettes would form a tobacco bridge covering the Bug river from bank to bank from source to mouth. The "papers" used would carpet Europe as with a white pall. If laid end to end those 400,000,000 cigarettes would stretch from Paris to Berlin and from Berlin to Paris nineteen times.

Obtainable everywhere.

"PROSIT" STILL ECHOES.

Statistics Show Enormous Quantity of Beer Made in Germany.

Some idea of the enormous quantity of beer manufactured for the use of Bavarian soldiers in the field can be gathered from the figures of the authorities of the First Bavarian army corps, just published.

Munich breweries alone deliver, it is estimated, 140 carloads of beer in kegs and 60 carloads of bottled beer each week. The first contains an average of 1,320 gallons to a carload and the second 5,500 three-quarter liter bottles. Other breweries deliver 50 carloads of keg beer, 1,320 gallons to a car.

Engaged in making this beer are the Bavarian State brewery, the Royal Hofbrauhaus and the state owned Welhustophan brewery. In addition to many private breweries. The army authorities pay 24 marks for a keg containing twenty-two gallons and 23 marks for a case containing fifty three-quarter liter bottles.

TO END COUNTERFEITING.

Prisoner Offers to Make Money Safe In Return For Liberty.

If the claims of Peter Feldkamp, now a prisoner in the Wayne county (Mich.) jail under a seventeen year sentence to Fort Leavenworth for counterfeiting, are correct, he may be the means of revolutionizing the entire issue of United States paper money.

Feldkamp wrote to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo offering in exchange for his liberty and a job with the treasury department a chemical secret he had discovered which, according to him, will make counterfeiting impossible.

Feldkamp is a photographer and an amateur chemist of no slight attainments. While experimenting in raising one dollar bills to ten dollar ones he stumbled on his process, which sluces his arrest, he asserts, he has perfected.

Feldkamp's process so colors the bill that it cannot be bleached and thus lulls eyldoers from making even the paper. Even with the paper they would still be up against a stone wall, unable to duplicate his tint. That the Washington authorities are taking Feldkamp's assertions seriously is shown by the fact that James Sloan, head of the treasury department at Detroit, has been instructed to interview Feldkamp.

WATER TANK AND PUMPING STATION, KENTUCKY STATE FOREST NURSERY, LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

FOREST EXTENSION, STATE NURSERIES

Demand For Material at State Nurseries Shows That Kentucky People Are Beginning to Plant Trees As Well As Cut Them Down

Frankfort, Ky.—(Special)—It is patent to those individuals who have made a study of the matter that there are certain areas of Kentucky which are more valuable for the production of forests than for agriculture or pasture. In fact, there are certain areas which never will produce anything except timber crops. In order to encourage the planting of these areas to timber, and also encourage the planting of timber or worn out lands for regenerative purposes and to prevent erosion, the State Board of Forestry, early in its work, provided for two nurseries—one at Louisville (which is the larger) and one at Frankfort, which is hardly a year old at the present time. The nursery at Louisville was started early in the fall of 1913, and has been gradually increasing its capacity. Last fall the first sale of stock was made from the Louisville nursery, amounting to one thousand black locusts and one hundred catalpa seedlings. That such nursery supplies are wanted in the State is shown by the fact that, if available, at least ten thousand black locusts could have been sold and an indefinite number of other species. There is no doubt but what, as the existence and extent of the nursery is realized throughout the State, a large and continuous demand will spring up for seedlings and transplants which the State can furnish, since these seedlings will be sold at cost to individuals who desire them. The nursery will pay for itself in time and the cost of the stock will be reduced as the capacity of the nursery increases. At the present time there are considerably over six thousand transplants in the beds at the nursery at Louisville. The species which were planted in the Louisville nursery this spring were as follows: Box elder, white ash, blue ash, apple stock, apricot, American beech, hickory, catalpa, chestnut, Kentucky coffee tree, wild cherry, sweet cherry, American elm, gingko, sweet gum, shell bark hickory, mockernut hickory, pin oak, black locust, sugar maple, red maple, cucumber magnolia, white oak, red oak, black oak, bur oak, pin oak, yellow poplar, black walnut, Japanese walnut.

There were sown in the Frankfort nursery twelve seed beds 24x4 feet, with the following species: Chestnut, red oak, black walnut, pin oak, yellow poplar, shell bark hickory, sugar maple, white ash. Each spring and fall sees the capacity of the nurseries very materially increased.

The varieties which have been planted in the nurseries have been (with the exception of some species with which it was decided to experiment) confined almost entirely to native Kentucky trees of special commercial importance. Just what number of seedlings will be available this fall for distribution and sale it is impossible at this time to determine on account of the earliness of the season. The seed beds were very materially increased within the year. One feature of the nursery work at Louisville was the planting of one-half bushel of apple seed. It is eventually expected that the Louisville nursery will be able to furnish apple stock of standard variety to individuals around the State and that the orcharding which is becoming a feature of agricultural work in Kentucky will in this way be materially assisted. Also the nursery is experimenting with varieties of walnuts, chestnuts, pecans and other nut trees which produce commercial orchards.

GATHERING TREE SEEDS

An Infant Industry in Kentucky Developed by State Nurseries.

The experience in growing trees at the State nursery has shown very clearly that in a great many cases it is not possible to get tree seeds of the native species at the time and in the condition desired. Kentucky is peculiar in that up to very recently there has been no agency or individual interested in the gathering of tree seed in its borders. The demand for tree seeds in the State nurseries at Louisville and Frankfort has started in a small way a new industry in the gathering of tree seeds within the State. Last year a considerable portion of the seed planted was obtained from Kentucky. Several small boys had become interested in this line of work and gathered a considerable quantity of seed of certain varieties. It is expected this fall that the bulk of the seed planted in the State nurseries will be obtained within the State from native varieties. The gathering of tree seed offers an attractive field for a limited number of individuals, particularly bright boys, who are willing to take the time and trouble necessary to distinguish tree species.

INTEREST IN SHADE TREES

State Forester Prepared to Answer Questions With Regard to Shade Trees.

With every passing year the interest of the citizens of Kentucky in the shade trees of the cities, towns and villages, along public highways and on private lands and estates has become more keen, for the reason that our people as a whole are gradually coming to an appreciation of the worth of individual trees and of tree communities from an aesthetic point of view, and are alive to their value as factors for health and comfort in the community. This is a natural development in line with an awakening public interest in parks, public playgrounds, better roads and highways and the development of attractive surroundings on the farm. In all this the tree plays a very important part. Then, too, throughout the state the present shade trees, which are to a very considerable extent remnants of the original forest, are decaying, deteriorating and dying. Their owners are interested most decidedly in their preservation, if possible, and their replacement if this must be done. Again within recent years the increase of insect pests and fungus diseases due to the introduction of new species and varieties from foreign countries and the importation of European nursery stock has caused widespread comment. Insect infestations among our tree friends, a condition which has been emphasized by the lack of natural enemies to keep them in check and a notable decrease in our native birds that prey on insects, have been of frequent occurrence. In cities the paving of streets, construction of sidewalks, laying of sewers and gas and water mains, conduits for electric light, telephone and telegraph wires all have very seriously disturbed natural conditions and endangered the life of the shade trees.

While it is realized that the care and protection of shade trees is not strictly within the province of forestry, yet requests for information in this direction have continually come to the office of the State Forester.

The State Forester is prepared to answer inquiries for information by mail with regard to shade trees—particularly what species to plant, the injuries and diseases to which they are subject, and to offer remedial for these. The First Biennial Report of the State Forester deals with this subject of shade trees in detail and may be obtained free of charge by addressing him at Frankfort.

EXPERIMENTAL FOREST.

Permanent Exhibit at the State Fair in Louisville.

In conjunction with the forest nursery at Louisville, there is being established an experimental forest which will also be a permanent exhibit in connection with the State Fair. It is expected in this experimental forest to show on a small scale what may be done on any farm in Kentucky in the way of raising wood material, and will be of undoubted interest to farmers and others who have already wood lots on their land or expect to plant them either for the material or for the purpose of soil fixation and regeneration. This forest will be situated on the bank of the Ohio river, and, in addition to furnishing a demonstration of what can be done in the way of practical forestry, it will also afford a wind-break for the state nursery, and will serve to hold the bank of the Ohio river in its present place.

HE ASKED FOR DONALD.

And Much to His Surprise He Got the Answer He Sought.

Dr. Norman Macleod, the famous Scottish divine, before visiting India, called on an old highland woman in Glasgow, says a writer in the Scottish American. "When ye gang tae India," he said, "ye'll be seein' ma Donald that went awa tae India ten years ago an' never sent the scrape of a pen tae his mither since."

"But, Katie," said the doctor, "India is a very big place, and how can I expect to find him?"

"Oh, but ye'll just be askin' for Donald." What for no?"

So, to please the old woman, he promised to ask for Donald, and he conscientiously kept his word. At various ports he made inquiry among British ships, although it seemed very much like looking for a needle in a bale of hay. But it is the unexpected that happens. As Dr. Macleod's steamer went up the Hugh river an outward bound vessel passed close by. A sailor was leaning over her bulwark, and, moved by a sudden impulse, the doctor shouted out:

"Are you Donald Macleod?"

To his intense surprise the man answered, "Yes."

Dr. Macleod had only time to shout "You're to write to your mother!" as the vessels drew apart. The result of his amazing meeting was that the old lady received a penitential letter from her long neglected son.

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of the clerks, 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'if this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.

$10,000,000 A MONTH IS SENT TO BELGIUM.

Whereas Edward J. Williams, the treasurer who disbursed the funds to meet the cost of the construction of the Panama canal, paid out $2,000,000 per month on the average during the years 1905-13, he, as assistant treasurer of the commission for relief in Belgium, has been distributing $10,000,000 per month since the German occupation became effective, says the Chicago Christian Advocate. The economy with which this fund has been administered by the commission and its splendid system of distributing food, regularly, promptly and economically, suggests to William B. Parker, the official historian of the commission, that we have here a practical illustration of how successful collective marketing for an entire nation may be.

Scrawny Calves.

What makes a calf scrawny—off its feed? Germs—parasites—in the intestines. Why not free them of this trouble? If you will give the calf some B. A. Thomas Stock Remedy in its feed, within a week you will see it brighten up and in four or five weeks you won't know the calf. Costs you but a few cents and we will refund that if it doesn't do as we say. For sale at Wedding's Drug Store, Cloverport, Ky.

Not Quite.

"Young man," inquired her father sternly, "will you give her a home like the one she has been used to?"

"No," replied the truthful suitor, "for there will be no grumpy father to come home and make every one miserable by his kicking over tridles and swearing at matters in general. There will be no mother to scold her from morning to night for wasting time merely because she wants to be neat. There will be no big brother to abuse her for not doing half of his work and no little brother to make enough noise to drive her crazy when her head aches. There won't be any younger sister to insist on reading some trashy novel while she does all the work. She will not have with me a home like she has been used to, not if I can help it!"—Boston Journal.

A Monstrous Tide.

The bay of Fundy forms a cul-de-sac at which the Atlantic ocean seems to have taken a special spite and at regular intervals pours into it an enormous amount of water. Take the harbor of St. John as an illustration of what this mighty tide must be. In most parts of the world a tide of ten feet is considered something abnormal, but at St. John it rises twenty to twenty-four feet in good weather. In stormy weather the monotony is varied by the high water mark being pushed up even ten or fifteen feet higher.

The Summery Girl

A quiet resort of the summery sort is where I am longing to be. Where girls with bright glances are seeking romances. And cool woods would hearken to me, Where roaming and boating and swimming and floating. Formality put out of curl, And soft is the heart of the summery sort Of summer resortly girl.

I've tried every jolly and dangerous folly The prodigal city affords; I've toyed to satiety with each variety Of the bait served us on awards; And none of it thrills me—with ennui it fits me—

And yet I'd get all in a whirl Could I ramble apart at some summer resort With a summery sort of girl.

Oh, dull may things grow at the garden or show And unspeakably dull at the club! You may note streaks of gray, feel you're getting passes,

And sigh you're no longer a cub. But just take to the woods, run away from your moods, And you'll soon frisk about like a squirrel!

When a-strolling you start at a summer resort With a summery sort of girl. —Lee Shippey in Judge.

FARMERS FROM BELGIUM ARE WANTED IN SOUTH.

Colonies Established Already in Georgia and North Carolina.

At an immigration conference in Savannah, Ga., one of the principal questions was that of methods of encouraging Belgian farmers to locate in Georgia.

This is not the beginning of such a movement in Georgia nor in the south. It was started several months ago, with the result that there are now several colonies of Belgian truck farmers in southern Georgia. Similar movements have been started in other states, notably in North Carolina, where there are one or two colonies of Belgians.

This demand for Belgians is due to two causes—first, the south entertains a profound sympathy for the Belgians in the plight the war has brought upon them; second, the great need of the south is for farmers, capable of doing intensified farming, to settle upon waste tracts of uncultivated farm lands in Dixie.

There are now in Georgia at least two concrete propositions which will be made to Belgians.

One is the settlement of a tract of some 1,700 acres of farm land in Lowndes county. Upon showing that families desiring to settle on this land are reliable people it is stated that all financial arrangements will be made for them, including transportation. Part of the land is wooded, and Belgians settling there will be paid for clearing this land. There is a community store, at which credit will be extended to those tilling lands on this tract. Options will be given on these lands at their present price. There is a similar plan for settling a large tract of land in Jones county, near Macon, where fifty farmhouses have already been built.

WAR PRISONERS' THEATER.

English Captives in German Prison Camp Give a Show.

The following story of life in a German prison camp was issued a few days ago by the German Information service as proof that Germany is kind to the enemies who fall into German hands. The translation reads:

"On the evening of the day on which Lord Kitchener stated before the British parliament that English prisoners in Germany were harshly used a vaudeville performance by the prisoners and for the prisoners took place in the camp at Ruhleben, says the Berliner Tageblatt. The program gives evidence of good humor, which could scarcely exist with bad treatment.

"The commandant of the camp sanctioned the performance, and from the program it is seen that the prisoners, among whom there are well known artists, made the performance a very jolly affair. To be sure, one must not conclude from this that the prisoners receive any preferential treatment. The vaudeville performance in Ruhleben is simply one of the many proofs that the treatment of prisoners is governed by the strict principles of justice and humanity."

GAINS BY THE ALLIES.

Germans Have Lost 1,027,740 Square Miles of Territory.

Statisticians who have been watching the progress of the European war have completed a compilation of figures indicating the land area losses suffered by Germany since the conflict began. These figures show that the allies already have taken 1,027,740 square miles of Emperor William's colonial possessions, which include former holdings in Asia, Africa and the Pacific.

An idea of the immensity of this may be gleaned from the fact that the area taken is nearly one-third as large as the United States, or as big as the combined states of Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Mississippi, Arkansas, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Some idea of the financial strain on the nations may be gathered from the fact that Both's short campaign against the Germans in southwest Africa cost Britain $67,000,000.
